

IT'S TIME TO RECLAIM OUR FUTURE.

This book is about society—how it has changed and what technology is enabling us to do to ourselves.

Sixty years ago, legendary economist John Kenneth Galbraith issued a grim prophecy that the global elite would harness the potential of the burgeoning computing revolution to accumulate even more wealth and power.

His masterwork The New Industrial State redefined our perception of ourselves and our society. The computing revolution has turned his predictions into a reality that triggered conversations between technology pioneer Bill Raduchel (a former colleague of Galbraith's at Harvard) and British Army officer turned MP Tom Tugendhat.

The New Technology State recounts their discussions and reveals how the wealthy and powerful have used the incredible technological advances of the past half-century to gain unprecedented advantages and what we can do to reclaim control of our future.

PRAISE FOR THE NEW TECHNOLOGY STATE

“Bill Raduchel started at Harvard as my father’s student, assistant, and friend. He went on to a career in technology as the digital revolution unfolded before his eyes. In The New Technology State, he suffuses the insights of The New Industrial State with the changes, challenges, and dangers of our information age.”

—JAMES K. GALBRAITH, PROFESSOR, UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS AT AUSTIN, AND AUTHOR OF THE END OF NORMAL

IN AN INTERVIEW, BILL CAN SPEAK TO:

- How the global elite are using technology to their own advantage—without thought to the well-being of the bottom 99% of the world’s population.
- What we can do to reclaim control of technology, including: tax reforms and instituting costs for electronic communications.
- Technology’s true impact on society and what the future will look like if we do nothing about the overinflated net worths and fractured societal climate that has developed as a result of modern technology.
